The New Coronavirus (COVID-19)

A graphic with the text "COVID-19" in large, bold, multi-colored letters (red, orange, yellow, green, blue) and "coronavirus" in smaller, black, lowercase letters below it.

The situation around COVID-19 is evolving daily. According to our local public health department in Santa Cruz, the virus is non-lethal to the majority of patients and many do not require medical oversight. However, the communities our members care for, such as elderly citizens and individuals with disabilities or pre-existing medical conditions, are vulnerable and at-risk. In our line of work especially, we want to do everything we can to protect others—ourselves, our clients, and our communities. We encourage you to take a balanced approach with proper and reasonable safety measures, including preparing yourselves with the knowledge you need to continue serving vulnerable populations without interruption.
